About &

& is an annual publication that collects the best work of the year written by both undergraduate and graduate students in the Creative Writing courses offered by the Department of English and Comparative Literature. Ensuring diversity in subject, substance, and style, it features the most imaginative work to come out of basic courses in creative writing (CW 10 and CW 100); workshops in poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, writing for children/young adults, and comic book writing; and special topics courses in creative writing (such as erotica and science fiction).

Edited each year by a member of the creative writing faculty, & aims to challenge young writers to strive for excellence in their craft by serving as a healthy competitive and elegantly produced venue for them to see their work in print.
